

Food Given to Myanmar Flood Victims

The International Relief Friendship Foundation extends its thanks to the many generous donors to relief efforts to assist people in Myanmar who lost their homes because of the floods following Cyclone Nargis that hit this Southeast Asian nation on May 2, 2008.

Donations have been channeled through the Myanmar non-governmental organization ABITSU, which has been distributing aid in the Laputta township in the Irrawaddy Delta region. The accompanying photos show food distribution in June to refugees in the areas of the Kanyingone and Outsat Coo villages. According to official reports, there are 20,000 refugees in the area, but the Abitsu aid team estimates that more 60,000 refugees are living in 22 temporary camps.
